Subject: Great Plains Energy Acquires Westar Energy

Dear <FIRST NAME>,

Today marks an important milestone in both the history and the future of KCP&L. As you may have heard, Great Plains Energy has reached an agreement to acquire our neighbor, Westar. As many of you well know, the combination of our two companies has been contemplated for more than 20 years. Now, we will be able to leverage our respective strengths to provide sustainable, reliable, low-cost energy to over 1.5 million customers in Kansas and Missouri as well as deliver sustainable shareholder value.

Once the transaction is complete, we will have nearly 13,000 megawatts of generation capacity, as well as almost 10,000 miles of transmission and over 51,000 miles of distribution lines. More than 45 percent of our combined retail customer needs will be met with emission-free energy. As part of that, our combined company will have one of the largest wind portfolios in the country.

The acquisition of Westar is squarely in line with our plan for strategic growth through best in class operations, customer engagement and targeted investment. Over the last ten years, we've focused on growing our business through focused rate base growth and disciplined cost management. However, we've also been opportunistic in the pursuit of logical and transformative combinations, as our successful acquisition and integration of Aquila demonstrated.

Simply put, the combination of Great Plains Energy and Westar just makes sense. We already are partners and trusted neighbors, having worked together for decades in Kansas through our joint ownership and operation of Wolf Creek, as well as the La Cygne and Jeffrey power plants. We are also both members of the Southwest Power Pool and share a similar commitment to the communities we serve.

Together, we will be larger, more diverse and more flexible. For example, our combined generation fleet, with a focus on renewables, will increase our ability to meet future environmental and renewable requirements, while minimizing the potential impact to customers.

As a former KCP&L or Aquila employee, you played a critical role in building and sustaining the foundation of our company, which led us here today and for that I thank you.

We are confident the combined company will not only better serve our customers, but also create a company capable of delivering more sustainable near and long-term shareholder value. This combination also creates tremendous growth opportunities that wouldn't be available to either of us on a standalone basis.

In terms of next steps, we plan to make the required regulatory filings this summer and seek shareholder approval later this year. We anticipate closing the transaction in the spring of 2017. Between now and then we will be working closely with Westar on an integration plan.

In the meantime, I encourage you to visit www.greatplainsenergy.com to view a copy of the press release announcing the acquisition. Together, our companies and people are going to achieve great things.

Sincerely,

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Great Plains Energy and KCP&L
